

THE DIAMOND APPROACH[®]

True Autonomy

New Diamond Approach Group forming: NY Area Diamond Approach

Most of us live with the very deep assumption that tomorrow will be more or less like today, that the life we know will continue. Yet every day, we see there are major shifts, whether in our personal life or in the world.

The spiritual path, too, will evoke major shifts. Assumptions about who we are and who others are often turn out to be greatly in error. Who we fundamentally are is unimaginable to our usual view. Though this can be exhilarating and liberating, it is also the loss of our familiar self and our familiar world.

In order for any spiritual path to really mature us, we need to be able to remain awake and resilient through these transitions, both inner and outer. For true autonomy and freedom, we need to separate from our historical view of ourselves.

Please join us this weekend as we explore what keeps us tied to our familiar view – and the forces that make it possible to disengage from this familiar view and radically shift our understanding of Reality and ourselves.
